Grenada today is sailing on a pretty even keel, with fair winds and few storms. The inevitable chaos which will follow the close of the war, whether win, lose or draw, will have to be anticipated. It is wise, therefore, for the businessmen of Grenada to associate themselves together in a strong Chamber of Commerce to seek so to arrange the community affairs that the inevitable crash of values will fall comparatively lightly upon them.

The time to prepare for storms is in the period of calm; the time to spinkle the leaky roof is during dry weather. Wise men anticipate events. Wise men seek to hedge against future depressions.

The industries that Grenada already has in operation are the reasons why Grenada is larger than Colfaxville. The industries that Grenada may secure with proper "zealousness" will make Grenada a city of 10,000 (if that number is desirable) before 1950.

There are people in Grenada yet who say, "We ain't got nothing in Grenada." I am going to prepare a series of articles, to be published weekly, which I hope will show the people that we DO have something here. With the start we have, with our ideal location in the geographic center of North Mississippi and with an elevation that places us above any conceivable flood, Grenada can make of itself almost anything, within reason, that its leaders want it to be.

We note that Pvt. Guy Clanton, son of Mrs. A. T. Clanton, has graduated in Aircraft Armament at Lowry Field, near Denver, Colorado, and that he will probably return to his home station, Savannah (Ga.) Air Base soon.

We firmly believe that this Nation is being rigged for early entrance into the war. Our guess is that for many months, only the U. S. Navy will participate. It is foolish to send corn to the mill and have it stolen before it gets there, and it seems foolish for us to have things given Britain become parts of Davy Jones' locker.

It will not be many months before a healthy, unarmored young man will actually be unharmed to be seen walking about the streets in this country.

Congratulations to Miss Mary McEachern of Grenada Hospital, who will be graduated next Monday. Best wishes to this splendid young woman.

Quantrell, the Chevrolet dealer of Grenada, seems to be not only a hustler in business, but also a kindly, sociable chap.

Some of you subscribers evidently filed your statements received from us, in the fire or in the waste basket. First thing you know you will be in the outer darkness.

Our old neighbor, Bobby Jones, now either a planter or a farmer at Kelser, Ark., became a new subscriber recently.

I told my old friends, John George and Zac Semmes, goodbye Wednesday afternoon, as they started they starting out for either Arizona or California by way of Caney Lake.

I would say which vase of flowers I thought was the prettiest at the Flower Show Wednesday, but have too much sense.

Mississippi has a fetish for electing lawyers, many of them being of third or fourth class, to public office. Mississippi will never make substantial progress until Mississippians realize that government is a business, not a plaything, and begin actually drafting, if necessary, men of sound judgment to posts of responsibility.

I intended to have something in the paper about TVA this week, but the big ad from the power trust forced it out. I have lived long enough to see that it is foolish to climb a tree to bite the hand that helps feed you.

William Wright has got into the shovell class, at least temporarily.

I guess by now Harry Burkley is singing, "Ain't they sweet."

Mr. Merchant and Mr. Clerk: leave your own car at home next Saturday and let some visitor use the space that your car would occupy.

The wimmen certainly did put on a splendid Spring Flower Show.

Our friend, Herbert B. Allen, who never knows what time it is—and does not seem to care a great deal—was presented one of those good dollar watches from Cliff Davis' store by the editor Tuesday. Now watch him forget to wind the watch!!

Dear Brandy Morris: Please pick up our other paper knife when convenient.

James Arthur Kettle, 55, Died Last Thursday

Mr. James Arthur Kettle, life-long citizen of Grenada, died in his home on Poplar Street in Grenada last Thursday afternoon, May 1, 1941, after a long illness.

He was born on February 12, 1886 in this city, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sidney Kettle, natives of London, England. He received his education in the public schools of Grenada and in early manhood secured employment as a painter with the Illinois Central System. His continued ill health forced his retirement from this work several years ago. On November 29, 1908, he and Miss Alice Bibb were married. Three daughters came to this union. Mr. Kettle, like all members of his family, was a devoted member of the Episcopal church. He was a good citizen, never given to show, nor to arguments other than those of friendly nature. He worked hard and devoted his attention to his family, to his work and to his church.

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon by Rev. Chas. S. Liles, Rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, interment in Odd Fellows cemetery followed. The profession of beautiful flowers and the many friends who gathered to pay their last respects to the deceased showed far better than words the esteem in which he was held by his old friends here in his home town.

Palbearers were Messrs. Roy Doak, W. E. Jackson, Ben Adams, W. J. Sherwood, J. L. Cooley, Jr., "Red" Rose and Joe Neely, most of whom were life-long friends.

Surviving him are his widow and three daughters, Mrs. Sam H. Melton, of Durant, Mrs. Sam H. Brewer, of Grenada, and Miss Mary Alice Kettle, of Grenada.

To the sorrowful ones, the sincere sympathy of this writer is added to the sincere sympathy of other members of this community.

The Grenada County Weekly, its editor and the old lady wish for this splendid young woman the great success in her chosen profession that her outstanding qualities merit.

Boone Wins Vanderbilt Bridge Trophy

Mr. I. D. Boone, of Grenada, who was chosen one of the best 36 Contract Bridge players in the world, to compete in the World's Championship Master's Individual Tournament held in New York City finished 22nd in the field of 36 players. At this time each year the two Blue Ribbon events of Contract Bridge, The World's Master's Individual and the Vanderbilt Cup Team of four event, are held in New York City.

In the Vanderbilt Cup team of Four Event, held at the Hotel Pierre, twenty-eight teams were entered. The "Grenadiers" was the label tacked on to Mr. Boone's team; the other members of this team were Dr. Ecker, Geoffrey Mott Smith and Albert Morehead all of New York City. After winning the first two sessions of play the "Grenadiers" met the Strong Mayfair Club team, captained by Maurice Ellis, who was the World's No. 1 player for 1940. Henry Chanin, Atlanta, No. 5 player for 1940 and Phillip Abramson, made up the balance of this strong combination. The "Grenadiers" won their match after being down 1800 points in the first session. The following hand was instrumental in putting this match on ice:

North, Dr. Ecker held: Spades, J. 7 and 8; Hearts, J.; Diamonds, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1; Clubs, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1.

South, Mr. Boone held: Spades 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1; Hearts, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1; Diamonds, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1; Clubs, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1.

West was Phillip Abramson, East was Maurice Ellis.

The bidding was: South, 1 S; West, pass; North, 3 S; East, pass; South, 4 S; West, pass; North, pass; East, double. North and South were vulnerable.

Boone made the contract doubled for a gain of 740 points while Flash-ben and Chanin playing the same contract were down 1100 points, making only six tricks, for a net gain to the "Grenadiers" of 1840 points. As the match was won by less than 300 points this hand was the deciding event.

This victory put the "Grenadiers" into the Quarter Finals, where they met the strong team from Philadelphia captained by Chas. Gore. After winning the first session of this match by the small margin of 20 points, the "Grenadiers" lost the second session and the match.

Mr. Boone, who has been playing Contract Bridge for about 8 years, has made remarkable progress, inasmuch as he has been unable to get very little actual playing experience. His knowledge of the game has been picked up almost entirely from reading the works of other experts. Among the many championships he has won are the following:

Cottonbelt, Team of Four; City of Memphis, Team of Four; Men's Pair, Miss. State; Individual, Miss. State; Men's Pair, Mid South; Delta Cup, Mississippi; and Allison Wells, Mixed Pair.

Providence Held Memorial Celebration Last Sunday

Last Sunday, May 4th was the date for the annual Memorial and Home Coming Day at Providence. The Providence people feel a great interest in this event. This interest is due to the fact that Providence is among the oldest of the churches in Grenada county and there is such a large number of people interested in the church and people of this community, also the cemetery is a large one and has been the family burying ground of a great many people for a long period of years.

People attended this service from all parts of the State and even outside of the state. They seemed glad to come and place flowers on the graves of loved ones and friends, and have a part in the Memorial Services and enjoy fellowship together with friends and relatives.

It was a genuine joy to welcome this large crowd of people and to try to bring them a message on this occasion on the great subject of the Resurrection. We just hope that we will be privileged to meet again next year on this same annual occasion, and we extend a hearty welcome to all who wish to meet with us and especially those who have ties back here at Providence in the church, cemetery and community.

In the meantime those of us here in the community should strive to the utmost to keep the home fires burning. We shall be able to do this by giving our loyal support to every worthy interest and activity of the church and cemetery. May we have the consciousness when we meet a year hence that we have faithfully done this.

THE FLOWER SHOW

Through The Eyes of Herbert B. Allen

Blossom Time in Grenada was on colorful and fragrant parade Wednesday as the Garden Club held its Spring Flower Show in the Community Center. All the colors of the rainbow, the sweetest of nature's perfumes, and the harmonies of the piano, blended into a superb background against which the gracious and attractive members of the club patiently introduced the florally bliterate to their fragrant and colorful world.

Every section of the nation has its special advantages, and in Mississippi we are blessed with a soil and climate which endows us with a heavenly paradise of charm in the form of flowers. For Grenada's most distinctive features are its trees and flowers. And no civic activity is contributing more materially to enhance the delight of living in Grenada than the Garden Club, with its well directed, and energetically developed program of civic adornment.

To single out one division of the exhibits for special praise would be to make invidious comparisons, for the several divisions impressed us with being remarkably uniform in attractiveness.

The interior of the Community Center lent itself admirably to a beautiful, natural reproduction of the woodlands which occupied one end of the building, and this provided a splendid setting for the general display. No detail was overlooked, from the camp fire to the wild wisteria draped gracefully overhead.

And speaking of art—there was exhibited a magnificent group of arrangements in the modes now in vogue in the world of flowers—old fashioned, modern and Japanese—and single and mixed varieties. The Club is deserving of the highest commendation for its achievement in this difficult phase of the florist's art. Strikingly beautiful was the central unit of this group, which consisted of yellow day lilies, mauve iris, pink snapdragons, and sweeping sprays of privet hedge, deftly arranged in a low black flower bowl of simple lines. This was set upon a handsomely bordered mirror and revealed against a background of dark green velvet. In perfect juxtaposition was hung a miniature picture of a pastoral scene, and upon the mirror was tastefully placed a Marie Antoinette vase, which imparted an effect of perfect balance and exquisite harmony to the ensemble.

Where ever ladies congregate, one hears the word "accessories" in popular usage. So flower shows must also have "accessories". Skilled Grenadians presented several hooked rugs of lovely designs and harmonizing color schemes. Many were, appropriately, of floral patterns.

Judged by the interest created, this exhibit deserves encouragement. Mrs. Jay Gore, Mrs. W. J. Jennings, and Mrs. J. B. Perry, Jr., are to be congratulated on these excellent examples of their handicraft, and we trust that wide interest will be stimulated in this delightful hobby.

Glassware attracts universal interest, and Grenada citizens loaned many charming and unique objects d'art for the Flower Show. We should like to see more space made available for these presentations in order that they may be shown to best advantage and be more closely examined by admirers of beautiful ornaments.

Lovely hand painted china was shown by Mrs. C. C. Waterman. We especially admired a slender vase decorated with deep tinted poppies, cleverly designed to enhance and emphasize the contours of the vase.

Of the many especially attractive vases on view there were two which particularly fascinated admirers of the exquisite. They were splendidly proportioned, and in unique gold and ivory color combination which permitted any combination of flowers to be displayed to great advantage.

These vases are from France, and they were presented by Mrs. T. H. Meek's grandmother, to her grandmother on the occasion of their moving into their new home, "Evergreen", in 1874. These valuable vases are now the prized possessions of the great grandson of that couple.

And when Mrs. H. A. Alexander moves in the direction of the piano, even the most beautiful of flowers have real competition.

In other words, ladies and gentlemen, the Flower Show was an unequalled success. If you were not there—well, New Yorkers ride an hour in the subway, and then gladly pay admission to enjoy these glorious displays.

Our congratulations to Mrs. S. J. Simmons, Sr., President of the club, Mrs. T. B. Revell, General Chairman of Arrangements, and their charming and accomplished fellow clubwomen, who gave to the occasion just that touch for which our Southern gentlewomen are noted.

Sixteen Additional Street Lights Installed

Mayor Robert Sharp, the Board of Aldermen, and Mr. C. V. McKell, District Manager of the Mississippi Power & Light Company announced today that 16 additional street lights have been installed on the city's streets.

This project begins a program of better street lighting in Grenada. Lights are being placed at dark and hazardous corners to provide modern safety lighting for the residents of Grenada.

This street lighting program, according to Mayor Sharp, is another step forward in the progress of Grenada. Besides the safety features of the new street lights, well lighted streets will attract tourist trade from U. S. Highway 51.

Mr. McKell stated to the Grenada County Weekly that "This street lighting program is in accordance with the policy of the Mississippi Power & Light Company to furnish adequate and dependable lighting services for the lowest possible cost to the consumer. Good lighting on Grenada's streets is important to the safety of motorists and pedestrians."

Mr. McKell also announced the installation of new equipment on the switchtrack at the Grenada plant. This work, which will begin in May and be completed in July, will render even better electric service to customers of Grenada and vicinity.

Health Proclamation

Whereas the health of the city of Grenada and of the public school, the Child's Welfare is one of the most important elements in our city, and

Whereas the town of Grenada is vitally interested in proclaiming this, therefore, R. W. Sharp, Mayor of Grenada, do set aside and proclaim Friday, the 9th day of May as Child's Health Day in the city of Grenada.

R. W. Sharp, Mayor.

Mr. Eastwood Passes

Mr. Eastwood, of Eupora, passed away on Friday, May 2, at his home. His son, Mr. R. E. Eastwood, of Grenada, and his wife and baby were at their parents home in Eupora when their father died. Mrs. J. D. Quinn and Mrs. Davis, of Grenada attended the last rites on Saturday.

MEMBERS OF McDOWELL MUSICAL PAY TRIBUTE TO MRS. R. M. SMITH

When one who is dear to us slips away, our hearts take stock of the things which endeared them to us in life. We love to tell of their many beautiful traits and hear others praise them; so we would speak of the beloved member, Elsie Rumph Smith, who so recently left us.

She was truly "A King's Daughter All Glorious Within." She was Royal in her sense of duty and obligation; Royal in her sense of justice, and Royal in her friendship.

She was faithful to her church and family, and untiring in her efforts to make the world a brighter place in which to live; she was loyal always in service.

Therefore, be it resolved: That we express to her loved ones our deepest sympathy in their sorrow, and our great appreciation of their dear one who was our valued club member and friend.

That we lovingly bid them remember her unfaltering courage, loyalty, and high heart, her priceless heritage to them.

That we send a copy of these resolutions to her family, one to the local papers, and duly record same in the minutes of the McDowell Musical.

Mrs. W. W. Garner, President.
Mrs. Raphael Semmes, Secretary.

A TRIBUTE TO MRS. R. M. SMITH

Her life was sweet with friendliness
Her smile was full of cheerfulness
Her greeting warm with kindness
As through life's way she trod.

To duty she was loyal
In serving she was royal
Unselfishness the portal
That led her close to God.

Now He has called her from us
To walk in realms so glorious
To live the life victorious
Perfected through love.

Let us not grieve or sorrow
For there is sweet Tomorrow
When we shall meet our loved one
In our Heavenly Home above.

—Mrs. R. H. Herring.

ATTENTION! GRENADE

Address of Mr. C. A. Walters, Vice-President in charge of Southern Industrial Development, for Sears, Roebuck and Co., delivered before the conference of Southern Governors.

Mr. Chairman, Governors of the Several States, and Gentlemen:

The development of Southern industries presents a golden opportunity, and I am here to tell you a little about the way our firm views the possibilities of southern industrial development. The message I am bringing to you is full of expanding opportunity for every Southern manufacturer, and the people of the South.

Now let me give you a brief summary of my own merchandising experience. I have been with Sears, Roebuck and Co. for over thirty six years, supervising the buying and merchandising of a large number of departments of widely varied lines. I have been a member of the board of directors for thirteen years, and recently was elected Vice-President in charge of Southern Industrial Development. In my new field of endeavor I am here to make a study of industrial conditions in this wonderful Southland of yours, and to work out, with your help, our mutual industrial problems.

Sears, Roebuck and Co., have recently started an intensified program of Southern Industrial Development at the suggestion of General Robert E. Wood, that is expected to increase materially the production of manufactured articles throughout the Southern States.

Many articles are today made, or grown, in the South that are later shipped north for manufacturing and assembling and later shipped back South. For example, step-ladders are made of Southern pine from around New Orleans or Southern Georgia, on which the South makes only a small profit on the rough lumber. This lumber is fabricated and assembled in Illinois, shipped South in the form of step-ladders at double the lumber freight rate, and the Southern consumer pays the bill.

We now propose to manufacture the step-ladders as near to where the lumber is milled as possible. The lumber will be fabricated into step-ladders and distributed directly to Southern destinations at much lower freight rates.

Those step-ladders destined for Northern distribution will be manufactured of Southern materials, with Southern labor, having the parts all cut to size, and we will then ship the finished lumber to the North for assembly there.

South Georgia manufactures the duck from which tents are made. The duck is then shipped to Cincinnati for water proofing—then shipped to Chicago, Toledo or Philadelphia for cutting and making into finished tents. Then the metal stakes and poles are placed in a carton with the finished tents and shipped South for sale here. There is no good reason why these tents should not be manufactured in Georgia at the source of the raw material.

We realize that the ultimate development of the South can only be achieved through a balance of agriculture—manufacturing—and labor. We are now studying the manufacturing side of your economy. This is all important, for this development will bring the South into that place in the sun to which it is so justly entitled.

For years we have been studying various plans for the development of Southern industry. These plans call for the making in the South—near the source of raw materials—of as many of the articles we sell as possible—so that we may reduce ultimate selling costs. We have had from the earliest time in Sears' history the policy of buying our merchandise as near to the place where we sell it as possible. This produces a balance between production and sales.

This is the opportune time for the new Southern development to increase materially the manufacture of articles sold in the Southern States. Our purpose in introducing this program is to fabricate the raw material as close to the source of that material as is possible—increase employment in the Southern States—and increase the wealth and prosperity of the South.

We are here with large orders for the Southern manufacturer, to take delivery of goods as made—and with money to pay for the goods on delivery. We are here also to try to diversify industry, which we all agree is very essential.

We will try to make proper connections with Southern concerns now operating. When this is not possible consideration will certainly have to be given to the starting of new factories. I know you will want Southern capital invested in these industries, and we sincerely do also. The factories must be erected as near the source of raw materials as possible.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. will make every effort to place its Southern business with Southern manufacturers—and large orders will be given to make the new arrangements satisfactory, not only for the present, but for the years to come.

Gentlemen, here is a real opportunity for Southern concerns. We are interested in long term contracts with Southern manufacturers, as we have found by experience that a longer contract is more satisfactory for all concerned—the manufacturer to know that he has Sears' business for the future—and we to know that we have reliable and dependable sources of supplies. Of course proper adjustments are made from time to time during the life of long contracts to make allowance for price fluctuations.

How many people realize the amount of merchandise that Sears buys annually in the South? In 1940 our purchases of merchandise in the South alone were over Fifty Million Dollars. In my opinion this is only the beginning and with your help this amount should easily be doubled.

We are also interested in towns of from 4,000 to 8,000 population—towns near large cities—towns with good shipping facilities—towns with good labor market, both male and female—and towns as near as possible to the original source of raw materials.

In Natchez, Mississippi, we opened a tire factory and undertook to employ 225 persons with an approximate payroll of $225,000 annually. Due to certain considerations, one of the chief of which was the high efficiency of Southern labor, our payroll in the second year of operation was over $300,000.

Gentlemen, not only will this program bring prosperity to the South, but it will bring to Southern young people many opportunities which have been withheld from them, for these employees are from local cities, towns and nearby farms.

During the past week I have contacted a New Orleans manufacturer who produces a heavy metal item. It has a large demand and we and others, have been shipping this item in large quantities from the North and Northeast.

The Southern cost of production on this item is higher than in the North, but when we figure our freight rates to the South, it is possible for this manufacturer in New Orleans to compete successfully on all Southern business from South Carolina to Arizona. We find any number of Southern manufacturers unable to meet Northern production costs, but when we figure delivered prices in the South, a Southern manufacturer can be developed into a very satisfactory source of supplies.

We recently talked with one of our factories in New York State making cotton pajamas about switching their plant to one of the Southern States. We requested your industrial agents to suggest suitable locations, and they promptly did so. The New York manufacturer was interested. He will move his equipment to the South within thirty days and will be in operation, employing 300 operatives in that community, within sixty days.

Gentlemen, I want to be a Southern Industrialist—I want to be one of you and help you in any way that I can. I want to join your Southern baseball team. I am here ready to pitch—if your various industrialists are willing to catch! But please do not keep me sitting on the bench—I have too much to do.

All of us here are interested in the development of the South, and I am here to give you every possible co-operation. I promise you, gentlemen, that it will be co-operation the like of which you have never seen before. I will be all through the South, with Headquarters in Atlanta. So when your industrialists have exceptional offers, or opportunities, please let them take them up with me.

Our chief aim and endeavor, therefore, is to locate more sources in the South so that we can place more business in the Southern States. To do this, gentlemen, I solicit your whole-hearted help and cooperation.

What's Going On In Grenada

To answer the statement of those who thoughtlessly say, "We ain't got nothing in Grenada," we propose to take up one by one the industries and institutions of Grenada and show what each one DOES contribute to Grenada's growth and prosperity. We propose to write and publish a series of articles under the title, "What's Going On In Grenada," each article dealing specifically with one industry or institution, and this will be done to show that Grenada has many fine institutions and industries, each of which helps take Grenada from the ordinary county seat class.

If Grenada depended only upon the agricultural products of its own county, as many county seat towns do, Grenada would be no larger than Coffeeville. These industries and institutions which we propose to analyze one by one, week by week, represent the difference between what Grenada IS and what Grenada WOULD BE if Grenada were not blessed with things other than a dirt culture.

As we write this introduction, we have no idea which of the various industries and institutions we will take up first. The order of their appearance will not represent even our own idea of the relative importance of each. The first one taken up will probably not represent what we think is the largest one, and the last one reviewed will probably not represent what we think is the smallest one.

A hospital serving four or five counties; a hosiery mill producing the finest of silk hosiery; one of the few oil mills in this section of the state; one of the few high density cotton compresses in the state; a million-dollar wholesale grocery business; a large concentration of well-paid railroad employees; the nearby treating plant; a veneer mill which is working to capacity; a stove company that uses otherwise useless timber—these are some of the industries and institutions that we propose to use to refute the statement, "We ain't got nothing in Grenada."

The cooperation of the heads of these several industries and institutions is solicited in advance for, otherwise we would be powerless to do what we propose to do.

Agricultural And Business Conditions

According to the April issue of the Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis—

AGRICULTURE—While weather conditions in the Eighth Federal Reserve District in March were in the main less auspicious than in recent seasons, more seasonal temperatures and quite general precipitation since the last week in that month have served to partly relieve conditions, and while still late, considerable progress has been made in preparations for spring planting, also growth of growing crops. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture the new season is starting off with better than average prospects. The condition of livestock is reported high and the movement to market in considerable volume. The trend of farm products prices was upward during March and early April, and throughout the period prices were measurably above a year ago.

GENERAL BUSINESS—Additional gains in business activity were recorded in March and the first half of April under stimulation of growing requirements of the defense program and civilian needs. During the period new high records in certain industries were made, and backlogs of unfinished orders were sufficiently large to maintain the present manufacturing rate for a number of months to come. But put of bituminous coal showed a contrasensational rise, and production of other minerals and crude oil was well sustained. Out put of lumber and building materials generally was on a large scale, reflecting the heavy volume of construction, both public and private. Since last June major contracts let in this district by the Army and Navy Departments is considerably in excess of $400,000,000.

DISTRIBUTION—The movement of commodities into consumptive channels kept well abreast of industrial activity. The volume of Easter retail trade in both the large cities and the country exceeded expectations. March sales of department stores were about one-third greater than in February and 9 percent above a year ago. Combined sales of all wholesale and jobbing firms whose statistics are available to this bank were 12 percent greater than in February and 20 percent more than in March, 1940. Freight traffic of railroads operating in the district was measurably above that of the same period a year ago. Reflecting the upturn in general business, the employment situation underwent further notable improvement.

Government, A Business

Mississippi is never going to make much progress as long as our laws are made and executed by members of the legal profession—not that members of the legal profession are necessarily incompetent, but that government is a business which should be handled by businessmen, not by lawyers.

Countless millions of dollars have been frittered away in this state due to having lawyers, not businessmen, in the key positions.

The State of Mississippi is a huge corporation and as such should be in the hands of competent businessmen, not in the hands of political lawyers. The lawyers that have managed Mississippi's affairs have by no means been outstanding in their own profession. Many of them are of about .22 calibre.

What applies to the state applies in equal measure to the cities and to the counties and supervisors' beats. All of these minor subdivisions should have competent men in charge as these minor subdivisions are large corporations also.

Hitler has played havoc with the little minnows, but does not seem to be able to handle Britain and the U. S., the big spoonbills.

What Washington Really Said

In view of the manner that George Washington has been misquoted, it is with pleasure to ourselves and, we believe, with profit to our readers that we reproduce a letter from Mr. J. B. Perry, Sr., who quotes exactly what Washington DID say:

There are many readers of daily papers who wonder if the statement we read almost every day, namely:

"Friendly relations with all nations, entangling alliances with none" and ascribed to Washington, can be charged to their ignorance or laziness.

What Washington said is miles away from this statement, and I suggest to you and your readers that they read carefully his farewell address of Sept. 17th, 1796.

It is too long to repeat in this letter, but it is well to recall parts of it, as follows:

"Observe good faith and justice toward all nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all. Religion and morality enjoin this conduct.—In the execution of such a plan, nothing is more essential than that permanent, inveterate antipathies against particular nations and passionate attachments for others should be excluded, and that in place of them just and amicable feelings toward all should be cultivated. The nation which indulges toward another an habitual hatred or an habitual fondness is in some degree a slave. It is a slave to its animosity or to its affection, either of which is sufficient to lead it astray from its duty and its interest.—Hence collisions, obstinate, envenomed, and bloody contests."

"Our detached and distant situation, invites and enables us to pursue a different course. If we remain one people, under an efficient government, the period is not far off when we may defy material injury from external annoyance; when we may take such an attitude as will cause the neutrality we may at any time resolve upon to be scrupulously respected; when belligerent nations, under the impossibility of making acquisitions upon us, will not lightly hazard the giving of us provocation; when we may choose peace or war, as our interest guided by justice, shall counsel."

It is our true policy to steer clear of PERMANENT alliances with any portion of the foreign world, so far, I mean, as we are now at liberty to do it. Taking care always to keep ourselves by suitable establishments on a respectable defensive posture, we may safely trust to TEMPORARY alliances for extraordinary emergencies."

"Constantly keeping in view that it is folly in one nation to look for disinterested favors from another; that it must pay with a portion of its independence for whatever it may accept under that character; that by such acceptance it may place itself in the condition of having given equivalents for nominal favors, and yet of being reproached with ingratitude for not giving more. There can be no greater error than to expect or calculate upon real favors from nation to nation. It is an illusion which experience must cure, which a just pride ought to discard."

Jefferson, in his inaugural address of March 4th, 1801 used the expression "Peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none."

So don't charge Washington with what Jefferson said, but read and ponder Washington's address, the more you read it the greater it becomes.

He said, "Steer clear of PERMANENT alliances" but if we are well defended "WE MAY SAFELY TRUST TO TEMPORARY alliances" also "If we remain one people, under an EFFICIENT government, the period is not far off when we may defy material injury from external annoyance." "We may choose peace or war, as our interest guided by justice, shall counsel."

Who can question the truth of all these statements? He did not lay down any iron clad rule about foreign entanglements, but in fact stated that we might trust in temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies.

Surely we are in such an emergency today. If we were not well armed and powerful in money, men and food, there is no question but that either Germany or Japan, or both would have already declared war on us.

Suppose, Mr. Editor, that you read this address, then write an editorial on it, by so doing you can clear up a lot of misinformation that the public is being stuffed with.

All of my admiration goes out to a man who could write such a wonderful document 145 years ago.

Thank God for a man like Washington.

We Must Awaken

The first thing to do is to let the American people know the absolute truth about our relationship to this world war. A part of this truth is that it is certain that we will be attacked unless before the time that can be arranged we shall have so progressed in our preparation as to discourage the attack. Another part of the truth is that unless we work with united effort marshaling all of our resources of men and materials, producing to the limit, the probabilities are we may find ourselves involved in a war we cannot win. We are all in the same boat. The boy who goes out from the home of a man who works in a factory will be in just as much danger if he is not properly equipped as the son who goes from the home of the President. As ex-Ambassador Bullitt said, when the Maginot line broke, all the French people realized the danger then. But it was too late. They worked night and day, worked until they dropped. But it was too late. We have to convince ourselves, the people of America, of the fact that if we are called to do battle and we do not win, there will not be any profits for the people to scramble over, there will not be any social gains for the people to be fighting about. There ought to be a general truce as far as possible, and it should be possible, in this economic civil war until by united effort we shall have made our common interests secure. It is not a matter of theory. Look at France today and see how many people are there now who have property to quarrel over or any social gains to protect?

The country, thru its Congress has provided the men and has provided the money. Almost every request made by the President for enabling legislation has been granted by the Congress. But more laws will not do the job. In this country, passing laws is sort of a fetish. More and more laws will not do this job. To do the job properly will require the united efforts of ALL the people.

Me and the GCW.

FROM A REBEL HILLTOP

By The Grenadier

One mile to the west of Grenada's Public Square lies the Rebel Hilltop. Shaded by towering, sentinel pines and the lowly black jack, this point dominates a wide region. Grim evidence of its strategic location is clearly delineated in the gun positions from which the Confederate artillery commanded the northern approaches to Grenada across the Yalobusha River.

Although the scene in the evening is now one of serene tranquility and of silence unbroken save for the song of a wistful whippoorwill, SEVENTY years ago it buzzed with all the activity of an army in the field, for twenty thousand of the boys in gray were bivouaced here.

One of the most brilliant exploits chronicled among the daring adventures of the War of Southern Independence was planned and organized at headquarters here. It was the cavalry raid on the commissary stores of General Grant's army at Holly Springs which averted the southward advance of the Union army. This surprise maneuver, perfectly executed by General Van Dorn, is a gem of Confederate military genius.

Those were stirring days in Mississippi, for questions of grave social and economic importance were uppermost in every mind. The best thought of the South was focused upon its problems, and its material resources were mobilized solidly behind the army in the supreme effort of that generation. But preeminent among the virtues of the Confederacy was the SPIRIT which animated both thought and action.

When the fortunes of war finally determined the constitutional, social and economic policies at issue, the prevailing spirit of the Confederacy may best be expressed in the lines of an inscription on a Confederate memorial in Little Rock, Arkansas.

Our furl'd banner wreathed in glory,

And though conquered we adore it:

Weep for those who fell before it.

Pardon those who trailed and tore it.

But not only did the war leave a trail of devastation in its wake, the succeeding tragedy of reconstruction (?) was unparalleled in the history of the English speaking people in modern times. The chaotic social and economic conditions which ensued created conditions and practices which have remained major problems of the South to this day.

Many of the finest minds of the Old South were sacrificed to the Great Cause. Material resources of all classes were exhausted, expropriated, or destroyed. But out of this void and devastation, and in spite of seemingly insuperable obstacles confronting the prostrate Confederacy, that generation, by sheer power of desperation, built a social and economic structure which it is our duty to expand and amplify into a heritage which will commend us to the generation succeeding us, as having been wrought in the best tradition of the SPIRIT of the Old South.

For the New South is not yet born. We are living in times of rapid evolution and readjustment. Already there are in our midst, young men and women of exceptional promise and ability—possessed of that personality and intelligence which will surely bring this beloved region into a deserved preeminence. Their broadly conceived plans, and their energetic policies, will bring the Old Magnolia State into the glory which is its true destiny.

From the Rebel Hilltop the golden orange sun sets majestically across the richly fertile Delta and disappears beyond the mighty Mississippi. To the north, east and south extends the picturesque panorama of the rolling hills and valleys, the woodlands, farms and plantations of lovely Central Mississippi.

And from this point of vantage, those affairs of this state, and those policies and conditions in the nation, and in the great world beyond, which have direct bearing on, and significant relationship to, life in North Central Mississippi, shall be surveyed, analyzed, and reported as they affect our prospects and our prosperity.

The best minds in Mississippi, and in the Southland, will be invited to contribute to this column; and many have already graciously consented to do so. We particularly invite articles from N. E. Mississippi editors. Primarily the column will consist of factual matter calculated to inform and to provoke thought, in contradistinction to presenting the opinions of contributors. In spirit it will be liberal, progressive, and at all times constructive in attitude.

As the title of the column indicates, a strenuous effort will be made to emulate those valiant Rebels of old who loved the South—and whose love was translated into deed and action! An earnest attempt will be made to live up to the motto which is herewith adopted as the criterion by which policies, plans, or practices shall be judged—"SOUTH BEFORE SELF."

In this, the first appearance of this column, as it makes its debut in Mississippi journalism, we desire to pay a tribute to our genial friend, and fine Southern gentleman, Colonel Will Hoffa, and to express our ap-

UNDER THE MAGNOLIA TREE

By Herbert B. Allen

One of the most feverish Nazi activities, in preparation for the present war, was the construction of several east-west and north-south superhighways across Germany. Railroads were surprisingly neglected in their rearmament program.

The military expediency of this policy is now quite apparent to all. Railroad lines are easy targets for bombing planes, and they are infinitely more difficult to repair than are highways. Railway traffic is paralyzed until track repairs can be made, and repair materials may have to be brought from some distance.

On a highway, when damage is inflicted on its surface, traffic may be detoured instantly, without serious delays ensuing. Therefore, one of the most important policies of the War Department at this time, is to provide fully adequate transportation facilities for the movement of the United States Army and its equipment.

In the Nazi blitz campaign in Poland, Holland, Belgium and France, the congestion and confusion on the main highways greatly contributed to the demoralization which assured Germany a rapid conquest. The movement of troops and ammunition—the handling of the wounded—the crowds of refugees and their belongings—all clogged the roads with a confused tangle of people and vehicles.

United States Senator Bilbo recently introduced a bill in Congress which provides for the immediate construction of a four lane, high speed, superhighway between Chicago and New Orleans. It would be route U. S. 66 from Chicago to Bloomington, in central Illinois—and route U. S. 51 from Bloomington to New Orleans.

This would give the Army a four lane superhighway in the Mississippi Valley which would facilitate troop movements between the northern army cantonments in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota; and the southern troop concentrations in Kentucky, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

Commercially, it would facilitate the movement of military and naval stores to and from important Gulf Coast ports. In addition, it would be of invaluable service to the South in further stimulating commerce in the regions of our Southern metropolitan districts, and greatly encourage tourist traffic on a wide scale.

It is the only route logically, legitimately and geographically suitable to the attainment of this great objective. For it has the controlling advantage, over route U. S. 61 through Mississippi, that it is at no time subject to potential flood menace.

Aside from its inestimable value to the national defense program, it has a very definite, and easily visualized, value to Grenada and Grenada County. And our revenue from the increasing sale of gasoline, as traffic increases is steadily rising.

We are most happy to express to Senator Bilbo our warm appreciation of his energetic efforts to secure the early enactment of his bill into law. There is also the happy circumstance that this bill comes under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, and Senator McKellar of Tennessee (and Memphis) is chairman of that powerful Senate Committee. Highway U. S. 51 also passes through Kentucky and the majority leader, Senator Barclay is from the Blue Grass State.

In the Senate the Bill is favored by a very influential group of senators indeed. That the War Department would expedite the construction of such a project is a reasonable assumption. We understand that the only obstacle to quick passage is the possibility of northern and western interests bargaining for support of the St. Lawrence waterway project.

In Memphis, the enterprising Memphis Jackson Highway 51 Committee, under the direction of J. O. Hollis of Carthage, is actively promoting the interests of this region through every available instrumentality.

The Senate Bill carries an appropriation of twenty million dollars, which would complete the highway from Chicago to Bloomington. But once construction commenced it is probable that the War Department would undertake construction at several points simultaneously, and that the additional six millions would be quickly appropriated under the defense program.

Grenada is vitally interested in the early passage of this legislation. And at this time the four lane superhighway promises to materialize in the relatively near future.

Why are prescriptions often written in Latin?

● Perhaps you have noticed that the prescriptions which your physician writes are usually written in Latin. No doubt you have wondered why. Prescriptions are written in Latin because Latin is a dead and never-changing language, universally employed in medical practice. A Latin prescription written in America or England can be filled in Germany, Russia, or France, even though the pharmacist may not know a word of English. On the other hand, no matter where your prescriptions may be written, we can fill them promptly and accurately. That is our specialty.

A new clerk at the drug store—one that is affable, alert, a typical chevalier that we have known all of his fourteen years, and who has made good eyes extra good in his school work. For him to have this position during vacation is fine. His many friends are proud for him and feel that Mr. Caffey has made a most wise choice in selecting James Mitchell for this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Tyler, of Glendora, spent the week-end here visiting the W. C. Norwoods, The Geo. Holmes family and other relatives.

MAINTAINING

Telephone Service Standards

As America girds for national defense, the Southern Bell Company's aim is not only to meet the increasing telephone demands of government and industry, but to continue rendering high quality service to the individual user.

Despite the necessity for training numerous new employees, and caring for a record increase in telephones and volume of calls, the service has generally continued at a high standard.

Telephone men and women are continuing to furnish friendly, helpful and technically efficient service.

These trained and experienced workers and their management are accustomed to working together and to planning ahead under conditions imposed by emergencies.

The workers, while meeting the rapidly expanding defense telephone requirements, are caring for the needs of the individual user in every way they can under existing conditions. The telephone organization is doing its best to see that during these times of national emergency you continue to derive the greatest possible advantages from your use of the service.

CELEBRATES 4TH BIRTHDAY

WALTER GARNER, JR.

Walter Garner, Jr., handsome little son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garner, celebrated his fourth birthday on Monday, May 5th, 1941 at a party attended by many future belles and beaux of Grenada. This lovely social for the children was staged at Hotel Barwin at four o'clock. Children's games were enjoyed for an hour or more and attractive favors, including colopane bags filled with candy added to the afternoon's excitement and pleasure.

A large birthday cake with four lighted candles made its appearance at the refreshment hour, however, individual cakes, used to match the large cake, were served with "Dixie" cups to the tiny guests.

Walter's happiness over the gifts and his appreciation of them, warmed the hearts of all present.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

In sorrow we offer this "Tribute of Love" in memory of one sister and her mother, Mrs. Elise Rumph Smith.

Whereas, God in His merciful wisdom has removed from our midst, Mrs. Elise Rumph Smith, therefore be it resolved:

First: That we lay in humble submission to His holy will, and accept this dispensation of His providence, knowing that God with infinite love has called her to her Heavenly Home.

Second: That our Society has lost a useful member, who was always willing to do her part, an earnest, cheerful worker, one loved and appreciated for her qualities of faithfulness and dependability.

Third: That we deeply deplore the loss of a faithful and devoted worker, that the vacancy left by her passing will be difficult to fill.

Fourth: That we as a Society, extend her bereaved family our heart-felt sympathy and pray that our Father will comfort and sustain them in their deep sorrow.

Fifth: That these resolutions be spread on our minutes and a copy sent to the family of Mr. Smith.

If given enough rope, a rascal will hang himself. This goes the old saying. We know not who uttered those words, but we believe that no truer statement ever fell from the lips of man. "Oh, if we only had another chance!" How often this is the wall of the transgressor! But so often there is only one chance—one chance with which to succeed or fail. If we act without thinking, if we so foolishly squander our only chance, then comes a waiting like that of the ocean. Waiting and sobbing will not help you though, tears and cries are only lost in the darkness of grief, they are useless. After the tears come bitterness, hatred of self for being such a fool. You despise yourself—but all berating, all crying is in vain. All is dark, there is no sun, no moon, in the midst of it all you cry "where is God?" And the echo of your voice seems as if it were a faint being thrown back at you in your conscience.

Some will read this and take it lightly, shruggingly, credit the writer with a bit of Spring Fever on the brain and they may be right at that. But when that great day comes, that day of judgment, known to all school pupils as exams. These boys and girls will stop and shudder. They will not shrink; they will not smile, they will fail, completely and unhesitatingly.

Many of the students in this school are prone to exert themselves too much, just enough to get a "C" or "D" depending on ability, but a word and a little extra to pass, let them ride easy. Just one little extra step in the last minute and they are through the failure.

Take heed of the rambling of the not-so-distant "dreams." Exams, approach; prepare yourself, be ready for them and you will have won your battle.

The trip that several students made to Starkville last Friday, April 27, was really a success. Laverne Wilson won first place in the state expression, Thomas Bell placed third in declamation.

Margaret Green comes in for her part of the fame in that she won first place in the state in Latin.

BAND CONTEST

April 25th and 26th were really big days for the band members who went to Jackson for the annual high school band contest. The members of the band who played the various contestant pieces really did themselves "pride."

The band as a whole placed second. Those who were rated superior were: John Keeton, student conducting; S. B. Cowan, cornet solo; Benton Keeton, baritone solo; Bobby Weir, drum solo.

Mary Elizabeth Cowan, alto saxophone.
 Lynn Rose, Johnny Mitchell, Brandon Anderson, and Warren Robinson, clarinet quartet.

Catherine Herring, Joyce Fleming, Brinker Throver and Rogers Phelps, clarinet quartet.
 Frank Matthews and Bobby Weir, drum duet.

S. B. Cowan, Mickey Angeline, Billy Parham, and Albert Graves, cornet quartet.
 We are proud of our band, and hope that next year the band will have more high school members.

CHAPTER PROGRAM

On Wednesday, April 30, Mr. Rundle took for his sentence reading a few verses from the 10th chapter of Luke. The theme of Mr. Rundle's talk was that geographic barriers do not form the greatest gulf between people, but the greatest barriers are the characters of the people themselves.

The results of the platform events which were held at Starkville on the 25th of April and the results of the band contest which was held in Jackson during the 25th and 26th of April were announced.

Mr. Rundle concluded the program with prayer.

WASTE BASKET

Hello there! Heard about Fred Barnes and Mary Ida Odum.

Jack Calk was paying his attention to "Cat" Herring in Jackson, so we hear.

"Poor" Keeton.

"Pathetic" Semmes.

"Pathetic" Semmes squinted. I'll York to church Sunday night and the church held up in spite of the shock of Willie's attending church.

Rogers Pleasants was there with Jean Scott Burt. (This affair seems to be becoming a steady thing).

Saw Essie Nash walking along with some unidentified stalwart a Sunday or so ago.

Mary Moore Juchhelm was doing all right Saturday night. Mississippi State, no less!

Andrey Moss and Ted Coats were enjoying each other's company Tuesday night. Where was James Goodwin?

What's this about Bedford Thompson's new romance?

Charlie Kenwright makes a point to be at all Batesville-Grenada affairs, we believe Ann Powell has something to do with this.

Dale Harper—forsake—n and alone.

There certainly were a lot of good looking girls over at Mississippi State for the state high school meet.

(Signed) Billy Semmes, Thomas Bell.

The latest—Mary Elizabeth Horton, and A. B. Monroe, Batesville.

"POOR" Keeton reports an excellent time at the band contest. He escorted Margaret Green practically everywhere she went.

Bobby Weir and "Uncle" Tommy Houston have distinguished themselves by hitch-hiking to Jackson and back in the course of one night.

Frank Matthews and Verga Leggett have been going together pretty frequently.

Kathleen Nail and Billy Horton is another new angle to say nothing of David Childers and Olivia Pulliam.

Mary Martindale gets letters pretty steadily from Honolulu and now that we've heard that he has subscribed to the GCW we ought to be able to collect some hush money from somewhere.

If any of the articles herein are displeasing to anyone who is at the moment within striking distance of Billy Semmes, the article was written by Katy Carlisle, but if the aforesaid displeased person is at this aforesaid moment in the striking distance of Katy Carlisle then the aforesaid article was written by the aforesaid Billy Semmes. GRENADA COUNTIANS ARE INTERESTED IN MARKET

By Mrs. Velma Neely, H. D. Agent.
We Grenada county poultry producers are very interested in our Central Mississippi Cooperative Egg Market Association and want to do everything we can to make it a success. We want the market preferring Grenada county eggs for their quality. So I am giving you outlined suggestions for producing quality eggs.

Care of eggs: a. gather 3 or 4 times daily during hot weather; b. gather in wire baskets; c. cool eggs in wire baskets or wire trays in a cool, moist room; d. keep egg room well ventilated and free from dust and mold; e. keep temperature of holding room from 40 to 50 degrees; f. keep humidity in egg room at 70 percent or more; g. cool eggs 12 hours before packing; h. keep eggs away from odors, oils, onions, decaying fruits, etc.

Feed a balanced ration: a. avoid excess green feed, succulent range, and feeds tending to produce thin whites and dark yolks; b. 5 percent alfalfa meal should be sufficient; c. ground limestone in mash, oyster shells, and codliver oil helps to make good shells; d. excessive amounts of yellow corn produce dark eggs; e. it is easier to produce QUALITY EGGS when layers are confined.

Produce clean eggs: a. keep litter and nesting material clean; b. screen perches; c. keep flock yarded or confined; d. clean the eggs thoroughly before packing with brush cleaner, steel wool, or rag and vinegar—do not immerse egg in vinegar solution, not put any water on eggs.

Produce infertile eggs whenever possible. a. fertile eggs deteriorate more rapidly than infertile eggs; b. embryo development begins at 98 degrees.

Purchase well bred flocks: (inherited factors) a. shell color, tints, creams, buff, etc.; b. egg shape; c. egg size.

Packing: a. pack eggs with large end up; b. place eggs on flat with the cups turned up; c. use clean flats and fillers; d. do not use newspapers—the ink soils the egg; e. pack brown and white eggs separately; f. mark "case cards" carefully, fully and completely; g. three holding nails in each end of lid is sufficient; h. do not nail lids in the center of case.

Any further information on eggs, call or write Velma Neely, Home Demonstration Agent.

RIGHT FERTILIZER APPLICATION METHODS BOOSTS CROP YIELDS

Just as a good cook can take the same raw foods as a poor cook and make it go farther and taste better by using the right utensils and proper methods of preparation, so can a careful farmer make the same amount of plantfood in the soil taste better to the plants and bring a higher return in increased yield by proper application.

Side Application Pays

"Although good results are obtained from fertilizer used in customary ways, recent experiments show that better yields can be obtained from the same amount of fertilizer by improved methods of application," says H. R. Smalley, Director of Soil Improvement Work of The National Fertilizer Association.

For example, recommendations made from experiments conducted in Ohio indicate that side application of fertilizer for corn is very effective when properly done. And oftentimes more fertilizer can be used at a profit when it is properly applied. Without fertilizer a poor yield was obtained and half of that was soft corn and nubbins. The plot fertilized with an old-type method of application produced twice as much sound, marketable corn as the unfertilized plot. But when the same amount of fertilizer was applied in two bands with the new-type planter the yield was 8 to 8 bushels more per acre than from the old-type.

Preachers certainly have a grand time.

Dr. Arent had to sharpen his knife several times Monday as he had about a dozen operations.

John Huffington is the fellow, who will measure your land, free of charge, and support the C. of C.

One of our auto dealers put a fair bit of ad. offering a used car, in the GCW, and sold the car next day.

If sustained and consistent support is given David Hubbard, the C. of C. president, and Herbert Allen, the secretary, and if the members do not expect miracles to happen in this prosaic age, we believe that Grenada will go places. As for GCW, it is 100 percent for this new organization, and is not only going to contribute generously commensurate with its limited means, but is going to do everything within its power to spread the gospel.

Grenada Clinic's handsome, attractive and efficient secretary, Mrs. Thelma Harris, recently renewed her subscription, but the old lady collected it, and kept it. However, proper credit has been given Mrs. Harris.

Fill Out Your Own Questionnaire

Due to the large number of questionnaires now being sent out by the Local Draft Board, member of the Advisory Board are being overworked filling out these questionnaires. For this reason we urge all who can to fill out their own questionnaires.

Most individuals who have normal intelligence and can read and write can fill out the greater part if not all of the questionnaire.

After you have filled it out, then go to some member of the Advisory Board and have it checked over and your signature acknowledged and your oath taken.

This procedure will greatly aid the members of the Advisory Board in their duties. Remember, they are men who are doing this service without pay and who have their regular work like everyone else.

Officials of the Natchez Trace Electric Power Association inspected and approved the rural electric lines in Beate Two and Three as follows: From Gifford Child's to J. W. Leverette's and to Graysport; J. S. Province's to Hubert Clark's; Graysport to John Weir's; from Sabougla to Grandville Ligon's; and Graysport to Walter Knox. These rural lines total forty miles and it is expected that construction will be completed by the last of July.

Mr. A. B. Bryant has rented Lawyer W. M. Mitchell's farm. Mr. Bryant moved here from Lafayette county where he was chosen as a "Master Farmer" last year. He has planted many acres to pasture and has a nice herd of beef cattle and a flock of sheep. Mr. Bryant believes in diversified farming and believes this county is well adapted to livestock production.

Albert Hayward, manager of Red Grass Farm, brought in a sample of hairy vetch that had grown five feet. Also a sample of Bur Clover with three feet growth.

George Williamson, one of our colored farmers brought in a sample of his vetch with four feet growth.

Glenwild farm has twenty acres of white clover to be saved for seed. It furnished excellent grazing during the past winter and will yield an average of more than 100 pounds of seed per acre, which are valued at about 75c per pound. This is a gross income of $75.00 per acre plus the value of an excellent winter pasture.

Messrs. J. R. Keeton, R. T. Suges, C. E. Rhett and George Carver, president of the Grenada County Farm Bureau, attended a district Farm Bureau meeting of nine counties at Winona to study National Farm Legislation.

Our egg shipping association decided to make Grenada a shipping center this week for this and adjoining counties. Approximately thirty cases of eggs are being shipped this week. A representative of the Kroger Stores from Chicago is here supervising the grading and packing.

The Grenada Churches

By HERBERT B. ALLEN

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

"Whom say ye that I am?" And the Methodist answer unanimously, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

In the pleasant and friendly atmosphere of the First Methodist Church, we had the pleasure of hearing a fellow veteran, the Reverend T. B. Throver preach from the text, "I have meat to eat that ye know not of." A numerous congregation heard a useful theme developed with splendid clarity.

Mr. Throver spoke on the "three phases of Christ's life—Church, Bible and Prayer, and particularly contrasted the hidebound conventions built up around the old Jewish law by the Scribes and Pharisees, with the liberal spirit of Christ's violation of every tradition which was not based upon essential truth. (We liked this very well indeed.)

Analysis of our prayers was urged in order to determine to what extent they were entirely selfish, for Christ's prayers were entirely unselfish. And Christianity is above all all things a religion of unselfishness.

Mr. Throver quoted our old friend, William Lyon Phelps, famous old Yale professor, as declaring that, "A thorough knowledge of the Bible, without a college education, is more valuable than a college education without a thorough knowledge of the Bible."

This interested us immensely and we decided right then that it would be the topic for next week's column, "Under the Magnolia Tree."

Mr. Ed Underwood made an announcement relating to finances which was received by the congregation with much satisfaction.

Percy Mabry Killed Near Leflore Sunday

Percy Mabry, 45-year old white land owner of the Leflore community in western Grenada county, was killed Sunday by Wes Hopgood, a citizen who lives just over the county line in Carroll county. These men were returning from a dance at the Cutt's home near Leflore and the fatal altercation took place about one-half mile below Leflore on No. 7 Highway. A nephew of Hopgood was asleep in the rear of the pick-up truck and was awakened, according to his statement, by the fatal shot and knew nothing of the facts in the case.

Sheriff Hayward and Jailer Matt Cooley were summoned and these gentlemen, with Sheriff William Glenn of Carroll county, arrested Hopgood at his home in Carroll county and brought him to the jail in Grenada.

At the arraignment of Hopgood before Esquire M. McKibben today (Thursday) a date for the preliminary hearing will be agreed upon by Hon. Dick Denman, who has been retained by Mr. Hopgood, and Hon. Marshall Perry and District Attorney Coleman, representing the State of Mississippi.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB MEETS

The membership of the Fortnightly Club met at the home of Mrs. Rogers Burt Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. C. C. Carthey, president, officiated during the very interesting business session, at which time reports were heard from standing committees and officers of the club. These reports were really very splendid as the club has sponsored worthwhile uplift projects for underprivileged school children the past several years.

A program on "Diseases in the South" was ably presented by several members following the close of the business session.

At the next meeting of the club they will disband for the summer period.

Dorothy Whitaker, of All Saints Episcopal College will spend the week-end here with her parents, Editor and Mrs. Whitaker and family. The Whitakers also have their elder son, Whyte, Jr., at home from Camp Blanding.

ALL SAINTS' NOTICE

The Railroads, Too, Have Voices

As if to discourage any undue optimism, there are voices that are being raised these days in earnest if indirect prophecy of ultimate disaster for the railroads. These are the voices promoting unplanned, uncoordinated and costly transportation. They forecast inland waterways thickly sprinkled with carriers from barges to ocean-going liners, highways packed with motor trucks, sky black with airplanes, pipelines tunneling under roads and rails.

Railroads have a story, too, and they have voices to tell it. MILLIONS OF VOICES. Voices that call for planning in transportation. Voices that recognize the supremacy of railroads as the nation's chief reliance for transportation. Voices that declare railway service is essential and, with half a chance, cannot be beaten in doing its job.

These are the voices, first of all, of railway managements, the official spokesmen of the industry. Then the owners, too, a million or more. Then the direct creditors, another million. Then the indirect creditors, many additional millions—savings bank depositors, insurance policy holders, teachers and students in endowed institutions of learning.

Added to these for anything that clearly benefits the industry as a whole are the voices of railway labor. They speak for more than a million workers devoting lives to this form of public service. And last, but not least, are the voices of those among the public who believe in the ORDERLY development of the nation's transportation.

These are persuasive voices. They are voices strong in the justice of their cause. They are voices that must be heard and will not be denied.
